“ It is with much sadness I receive the news of Dawn's passing. She will be much missed. Dawn was so very alive and responsive to the world around her--a presence: I will remember her bouyant enthusiasm for singing in the choir, visiting her friends at Dr. Kate's, working at the soup kitchen, seeing her children and grandchildren, going on a car trip with Charles. I could "feel" the places and people she loved through her fond stories about them even though I've never been to the soup kitchen, never met her friends at Dr. Kate's. I came to appreciate her loyalty to her friends, her lively spirit and her ability to connect with people and cherish her family. She let us know what she disliked, too, which added spunk and a little fire to the ways in which she was Present. Dawn is a cousin who I only grew to know and love over the last fifteen years. I wish I had discovered her sooner. She was--and is-- a gem of a woman. I miss her already. I am sorry for your loss. My lovee to all of you.
Your cousin, Carol Winkelman
