“ On June 17, 2017 I lost one of the most important people in my life. Other than my mom, she was the strongest person I've ever known. She was a loving, stubborn, crazy fun German woman whom I will forever carry in my heart. I like to think I get my strength from her. When the world tried to keep her down, she would always figure out a way to keep her head up and keep on going. She had so many hardships in life, from immigrating here when my dad was only 2 to having her aorta rupture. She came out a stronger woman every time. I'm happy you are finally free and you were able to let go holding your boys. I love you and I miss you more than you will ever know, grandma. I wish I could tell you that just one more time. Forever and always. May you find peace up there in paradise.
