“ *John and I became close friends in September, 1967. We remained as close for the next 45 plus years. Our children grew up together. I talked to him the Monday before his death as he again "butt called" me. Maybe it was his way of saying goodbye...Mary and I visited John and Marilyn last month at the lake. John and Marilyn were wonderful hosts. John was so happy for the last few years, I want to thank Marilyn LeMoine for making that happen! I am devastated by his passing and honestly don't know how my life will be changed by this. I'm thankful for my wife Mary to help me through this...

“ If you look in the dictionary under "nice guy" you would find the name of John Le Moine.

It was less than a month ago that John and Marilyn sponsored a "get together" with a few family members at their lake home in northern, Wi. John was in his element being a wonderful host and cooking up brats and burgers for all of us. After dinner, John took us for a boat ride on his scenic lake. It was quiet, peaceful, and everyone could tell that John was so happy and content to be with his spouse, Marilyn, and other family and friends. Little did we know this would be the last time we would see John. As you enter the "Afterlife" John, remember you were loved by many and will always be remembered as that "NICE GUY." We'll miss you my friend! Our love and thoughts go out to all of your family.

Always,

Mike and Eileen Gerrity
