“ I was director of the Superior, Wisconsin, Public Library from 1977 to 1997, when I retired. I am now 82. Nancy was administrative assistant at the library from about 1988 until after I retired. After three failures we achieved a new library. Nancy was the perfect administrative assistant and was of enormous help in our adjustment to the new technologies of a new library era. She was an excellent typist, communicator, and at home with computers. When she married Casey, I gave him the old French-Canadian bear hug--not knowing he had broken three ribs in a fight the night before. Sorry, Casey! I'll see you soon, Nancy. Paul H. S. Gaboriault, St Paul, MN
