“ Grandma, I missed you long before you went to live with the Lord. I have fewer memories of you than most, but each and every one includes lots of laughter, loud colorful conversations, and your ability to clear the kids out of a room with a quick flash of your dentures. I want you to know that I am my mother's daughter by blood only, nothing else. I praise you for being the great mom she never was, especially to those who needed you the most. You hold many answers to questions I never got to ask. So until we meet again.....love you.
