

Terrie Marie Woods

October 8, 1969 - June 12, 2024

I will tell you a story about a vibrant person who significantly impacted life in the most extraordinary way. This person was a strong woman who battled more battles than anyone should have in a lifetime. Her strength powered through her veins, and her courage was released through her bones. Her heart was gold and tender as she would help anyone around her, including our beloved furry animals. Her soul influenced everyone as she talked and talked away about the simple things in life that brought her abundant joy. Her humor was natural and kept people laughing for hours where your stomach would turn, and that pleasant pain would creep into your abdomen. She loved her family, friends, pinochle, traveling, dancing, singing, the Packers, painting, the movie Beauty and the Beast, and so much more. I'm describing this astonishing woman named Terrie Woods, known as Bear. She will be missed and loved by all. Her mark will never disappear in the people she adored and treasured. Fly high Bear, and your loved ones will be with you again one day. Her story doesn't end here.
